Youth Crew at the Farm

The "Youth Crew at the Farm" is an 8-week summer paid internship for high school and early college students. The program allows Youth Crew members to develop employable agricultural concepts to the real world and cultivate HCFM's quarter-acre Urban Farm. The crew participates in classroom-style learning and hands-on activities, covering the topics of regenerative agriculture, carbon offsets, and renewable energy. This STEM-focused programming is critical for the Youth Crew as it creates links between this internship and local businesses and other employers in formal learning structures, creating strong connections between students and the workplace. The Youth Crew also participates in programming from community partners in financial literacy, entrepreneurship, cooking demonstrations, and mental health services.

During the summer of 2022, 8 local high school students graduated from this program, 3 of whom also attended HCFM's Fall Leadership Program and will also return to the farm this summer as youth leaders.

HCFM is seeking community support for the 2023 Summer season- if you are interesting in sponsoring, please contact Dori Burgess at dburgess@hubcityfm.org.

Thank you, HCFM, for all you for our youth and community!
